This kitchen is special because it's thoughtfully planned. The island has a thicker wood countertop for interest where people congregate. The dead corner sink is notched to add more real estate on the floor. Plenty of drawers make accessibility easier. The microwave drawer is tucked away for easy use near the working triangle. Full height backsplash tile wraps the window for a continuous flow and easy maintenance in this zone. The neutral color scheme is timeless.

The lighting brightness level should be taken into consideration when designing a kitchen. To provide enough illumination for cooking and other activities, task-oriented lighting should be about three times brighter than ambient lights.

Open shelves create an area for display (focal point) and a visual break from enclosed cabinetry.

Code V4 (substantial variation) in this backsplash tile shows random color and/or texture differences in the colorway.

Two-toned cabinets are a great way to create the illusion of space in a small kitchen. If white cabinets are above darker cabinets below, the eye is immediately drawn up to the brighter shade, giving the appearance that your kitchen is more spacious than it is.

Quartz countertops (engineered stone) are durable and low maintenance. This color mimics the veining of natural stone.

Local HGTV remodeler owner from Lamb & Co. stated, "We always advise people to put money into the kitchen and into the main bathroom off of the main bedroom. Those are the main areas we're going to see our return in..."
